

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with interest. "I can describe the dumb, empty sensation I experienced in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was a case of indigestion, but with no particular benefit. When I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and took it. I had no particular benefit, but a few days had passed before every bit of that 'gone' feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 110 to 100. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been a satisfactory result in every case. James Kane, L. H. Roe, C. E. Smith, and J. H. Smith, all of whom are direct for the Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

MEMORIAL TO BOOTH.

A Painting of Edwin Booth Placed in the Court House at Belair.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18.—Edwin Booth will not be forgotten in the state of his birth. In the court house at Belair, near which he was born, is a handsome painting of him presented by the people of Hartford county. On his birthday Charles E. Ford, presented to the city of Baltimore as a fulfillment of the wish of his father, John T. Ford, a painting of Booth as Hamlet. It represents the tragedian at the age of 35, and it was given a place in the reception room at the city hall.

In presenting it Mr. Ford mentioned the fact that the school room of Booth's boyhood, the cellar in which he and John Slesinger Clarke gave their first performance as boys, and the dwelling in which he courted his first wife, were but a few steps from the city hall, while the theater in which he and his father had won many of their greatest triumphs was directly across the street.

"Let me recall the fact," said Mr. Ford, "that the monument of Shakespeare in Central park, New York, was the result of two performances given by Edwin Booth and that the city of Brooklyn has recently given $100,000 for park statuary."

He hoped Baltimore would erect a statue to Edwin Booth.

WILL CONTEST NEBRASKA.

Republicans will Demand a Recount of Votes by the Legislature.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 18.—A special to the Bee from Lincoln, Neb., says: The Republicans will demand a recount of votes by the legislature. Up to noon no notice of contest had been filed with the secretary of state, but a prominent Republican state official says that such notice will undoubtedly be filed within the limit which expires on the 20th instant.

He said that a legislative committee consisting of two Populists, two Democrats and three Republicans will be asked for to proceed with a recount of the ballots for the purpose of quelling the title and removing all doubts of the election of either candidate for governor. It will be necessary to serve notice on Judge Holcomb at the same time.

At independent headquarters matters are being put in shape by Attorneys Bryan, Luse, Brady and others to serve notice of contest on the entire list of Republican candidates for state officers immediately following the contest on governor.

Judge Holcomb is expected to arrive from Broken Bow Wednesday and remain here until the opening of the legislature.

Wm. Distler, clerk of Soldier township, filed a statement today that his election expenses were $0 cents.

LURED THEM TO DEATH.

The Steer Who Played the Siren at Armour's Packing House, Killed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Dick is dead. People, strangers and residents of Chicago, who have visited Armour's packing house to see how cattle and hogs are killed, never left the place without seeing one of the greatest confidence players and swindlers that the sun ever shone on. This prince of deceivers was a man with brown hair, known as Dick, and whose companion, Phil, still carries on the swindling business at the old stand.

Dick had been carefully trained in the business. Western cattle, when unloaded at the stock yards are unusually wild. It was the business of Dick to mix with the drovers of cattle for a moment and then lead them toward the cattle pens. At the gate leading into the "chutes" Dick's business was to turn sharply and as he accidentally to one side and let the unruly western cattle run into the pens, from which they would be taken to be killed. Dick would then return to his old stand and wait for the next consignment.

Of late, however, Dick had been lazy. He performed his duties in a slovenly fashion and provoking would not make him hurry. When killing began at midnight last night he, too, was driven into the pen into which he had led many and was killed.

TO SUPPRESS BAD BOOKS.

An Order Made to Prevent Their Sale on Santa Fe Trains.

C. B. Strohm of Ft. Madison, assistant general superintendent of the Santa Fe, has issued an order intended to stop the sale of objectionable literature on Santa Fe trains.

"Our contract with the Railway News company prohibits their agents selling objectionable literature, such as detective works, descriptions of train wrecking and robbing, and lives of desperadoes, such as Younger Brothers, James Brothers, Dalton Brothers, etc., and also immoral and licentious works, and the News company has called in all such works."

"News agents have been handling licentious works secretly, that is books which are not issued to them by the news company. Sometimes these works are enclosed in sealed wrappers. This is a direct violation of the news company's rules and also of our contract with the news company. All works issued by the news company are marked with the stamp, 'Railway News Company,' in oval form, and any objectionable works, such as the news agents are found circulating that do not bear this stamp are unauthorized. The agent found handling them should be reported at once."

"Please keep close watch of the matter and advise me promptly if you find any works such as described above being sold on our trains."

IN JAIL ALL WINTER.

Fannie Wright Will Suffer For Cutting "Min" Saunders With a Razor.

Fannie Wright, the toughest colored girl in Topeka, except fifteen or twenty others, will stay in the county jail nearly all winter for cutting Minnie Saunders. They had a fight several months ago over a colored lover, in which she drew her steel, and cut Miss Saunders deep. For a time the latter wasn't expected to live. But with an obstinacy that somebody nicer wouldn't have had, she put through and is now on the streets again. By some arrangement with the powers that be, Fannie Wright was allowed to plead guilty to assault and battery today. Judge Hazen sentenced her to pay $10 and costs, which means a total outlay of over $20.

The Wright woman appeared in court with her cheeks painted a bright red, which just matched her big red hair. She had no reason why she should not be passed upon her. Half a dozen of her friends were in the court room to testify by their presence their sympathy with the defendant.

CRUEL, IF TRUE.

Amanda C. Worrell petitioned today for a divorce from Jacob M. Worrell to whom she was married five years ago at Council Grove. Extreme cruelty is the ground on which she asks for the separation. She says her husband lately took offense at the price paid for some small article of merchandise and struck her, knocking her over a coal box and inflicting injuries from which she has not fully recovered. She says that on one occasion she jumped through a window to escape her husband. Mrs. Worrell adds that on several occasions her husband locked the kitchen and pantry doors to keep her from getting anything to eat. The plaintiff asks for the restoration of her maiden name, Amanda Wallace.

MINIE BALL IN HIS HEAD.

After Carrying It Thirty Years It Is Removed from an Iowa Man.

CRESTON, Ia., Nov. 18.—The case of George Sackett of Adair county, a veteran of the civil war, from whose head surgeons have just removed a minie ball, is an exceptional one. For thirty years he has carried in his head a minie ball weighing nearly an ounce. The exact location of the ball was never known until the day of its removal.

It never bothered Sackett until recently, when an abscess formed in the neck passage and the discharge from the nose became irritating. This enabled the doctor to locate the ball in the fleshy part of the head back of the eye and near the nasal passage. The operation was successful and Sackett experienced no serious results.

ANNIE DIGGS' COLONY.

Its Intellectual Results the Main Object to Be Attained.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Annie Diggs says of her proposed socialist colony on the lower Potomac: "I find that in a financial way co-operation has proven wonderfully successful wherever it has been given a fair trial, and the failures colonies have met have almost always been due to dogmatic religious restrictions or the adoption of unnatural rules of living. Socialism should cultivate individuality in thought and action, and when it fails in this it fails of its purpose. We expect the most lasting results of our labors in an intellectual way will be apparent in the coming generation. The colonies that will be established now will be practical schools teaching the principles of co-operation, and the children of today will be the managers of co-operative enterprises of the future."

"We will show co-operation on a small scale is practicable, and if it is a success with a limited community there is no reason why it should not be equally successful with a state or a group of states or with the world. Why not? Our principle object will not be the accumulation of wealth, but to perfect means by which the greatest results can be obtained from the least labor. The few hours each day required to provide the necessities of life the more time will the individual have to the cultivation of his mind and intellectual enjoyment. This more time the people have for study the more enjoyment there will be in the world. I am sorry I am enjoined to secrecy in regard to the persons who are interested in this project, for if the names of some of them were known the importance of the movement would at once be apparent. Practical socialism is developing rapidly in this country and there will be many movements along the lines outlined during the coming year. The time is ripe for it."

EYEBROW CULTIVATION.

How to Give Added Character to One's Physiognomy.

Next in Importance to the Eye Itself Are the Brows and Lashes—How the Cult Is Practiced by Its Devotees.

Curiously examining the pretty toilet articles that lie in great profusion on the dressing table, you come across a tiny brush, delicate and white, with a finely chased silver back. You wonder at its purpose.

"What is this for?" you ask, holding it up. The owner looks at it for a moment with a thoughtful, puzzled expression. Suddenly her face clears. "Oh, yes, that's my new eyebrow brush," she explains.

The disciples of physical culture have a new cult. They devote themselves to the eyebrow and eyelash, for the possibility of the brow and lash as a factor in facial expression is being more fully appreciated. Indeed, the brow, the naturalist places, the eyebrow next in importance to the eye itself in giving character to the physiognomy. This is partly because, he says, of the marked contrast of this feature to the others of the face. The brows are a shadow in the picture, bringing its color and drawing into strong relief. Eyelashes also contribute their effect; when long and thick they overshadow the eye, and make it appear softer and more beautiful.

It is, indeed, claimed by many that the eyeball itself is incapable of expression; that it is the drooping or sudden lifting of the lid which speaks. These even pass by the dilating or

THEIR MELANCHOLY DAYS ARE COME.

THE REPORT WILL STAND.

Carroll D. Wright Says His Report Will Stand Against the Railway Age.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—In replying to the charges of the Railway Age that the strike commissioner's report was a misrepresentation of facts, Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright said to a reporter:

"As an individual member and not speaking for the commission as a whole, I can only put a report against the article in the Railway Age. We have not received a copy of the article officially and until we do, the commission will not answer it. The report is impregnable and based upon evidence throughout."

Mr. Wright also said that those who were hurt by the report and felt its forceful penetration, would, in their efforts to check its influence, use the weapons of abuse. They cannot, he said, point out the alleged "enormous errors, and inaccuracies which are paraded in the Age article."

"The report of the commission is based on facts and will stand."

One of the so-called errors or inaccuracies made by the commission, according to the Railway Age, was the statement that a large number of railroad employees were sworn in as deputy United States marshals to protect railroad property, and that their salaries as government law officers were paid by the railroad company and not by the United States.

"This statement," added Mr. Wright, "was testified to before the strike commission by President St. John of the Railway Managers' organization, and others, on his side of the question. And I do not hesitate to say that the employment of those railroad men as deputy United States marshals was wrong, and set a very bad precedent indeed."

Commissioner Wright was in Chicago the other day when the report of the strike commission appeared in the newspapers under a glaring headline, some of which stated that the report was a vindication of the policy of President Eugene V. Debs of the A. R. U.

Referring to this he said to the reporter last night: "Free strike commissioners did not set out to deal with or investigate Mr. Debs, Mr. Pullman or Mr. St. John. It was not dealing with individuals but systems. There was no purpose to vindicate any one but to investigate the conditions and systems impartially and report the findings to the government."
